Purpose

The Master's programme, established in collaboration with the Accademia Vivarium Novum, aims to train teachers, trainees, and graduates in the effective teaching of Latin language and literature through active, inductive-contextual methods.

Target audience

The Master's programme is intended for individuals who meet the specific admission requirements outlined in the relevant section and who wish to acquire both theoretical knowledge and practical teaching skills using the active inductive-contextual method. A solid command of the Latin language – including writing and oral proficiency – is required, as the course will be delivered primarily in Latin.

Educational objectives

The Master's programme aims to strengthen linguistic and literary competence in Latin from a didactic perspective; to provide interdisciplinary models connecting Latin with other school subjects (such as history, philosophy, art history, science, mathematics, physics, etc.); and to offer a historical overview of Latin teaching methods, with particular attention to approaches and tools that remain effective in contemporary education.

Learning outcomes

Upon completion of the programme, participants will have developed skills and competencies aligned with the aims and objectives of the Master's programme and the intended professional profile. Specifically, they will acquire the ability to:

- ✓ use existing teaching tools (such as textbooks, exercise books, etc.) designed for the inductive-contextual method of teaching classical languages;
- ✓ create new teaching materials and exercises;
- ✓ apply the Latin language in practical teaching contexts;
- ✓ adopt effective teaching methods—both traditional and contemporary—in their educational practice.

Admission criteria and compatibility

Entry requirements

The Master's programme is open to applicants holding a Bachelor's degree, a four-year degree (under the previous system), a Specialist/Master's degree, a first-level academic diploma, or any other qualification obtained abroad that is recognised as valid under current regulations, in the field of humanities. Applicants with degrees in other disciplines are invited to submit their qualification and curriculum vitae for evaluation.

Conditional admission

Applicants who have not yet obtained their degree by the application deadline may be admitted conditionally, provided they promptly notify the institution upon completion of their qualification.

The degree must be awarded no later than 31 March 2027. Failure to obtain the required qualification by this deadline will result in the cancellation of enrolment, and any fees already paid will not be refunded.

Admission of foreign students and Italian/EU citizens with foreign qualifications

Italian or EU citizens who have obtained a degree abroad, as well as non-EU citizens legally residing in Italy, must submit an application to enrol in the Master's programme. The application must be accompanied by a legalised copy of the degree certificate, along with a Dichiarazione di Valore (Declaration of Value) issued by the Italian diplomatic or consular authority in the country where the qualification was obtained. Furthermore, if the degree certificate is written in a language other than English, French, Spanish, German, or Portuguese, it must be accompanied by an official translation. For European qualifications, the Diploma Supplement may be submitted in place of the Declaration of Value. It is important to note that either the Diploma Supplement or the Declaration of Value is essential for assessing the eligibility of the candidate's qualification and for considering admission to the Master's programme.
Non-EU candidates who do not reside in Italy and hold an academic qualification equivalent to those mentioned above may apply for admission via the Ministry of Education and Research portal known as "Universitaly".

Compatibility

Law No. 33 of 12 April 2022 allows students to enrol simultaneously in two higher education programmes, thereby enabling them to obtain two qualifications of this kind within the same time frame. Specifically, Article 1 (paragraph 1) grants each student the right to enrol concurrently in two different Bachelor's or Master's degree courses, or postgraduate programmes, even at different universities, schools, or institutions with special regulations. However, paragraph 2 explicitly excludes the possibility of simultaneous enrolment in two Bachelor's or Master's degree courses belonging to the same degree class, or in the same Master's programme, even if offered by two different institutions.

Duration and structure of the Master's programme

The Master's programme lasts 12 months. Classes are scheduled to begin in March 2027 and conclude by March 2028. Teaching will be delivered on a weekly basis, with additional sessions held once a month over the weekend.
The programme awards 60 university credits (ECTS), corresponding to 1,500 hours of study, distributed across live online lectures, in-person workshops – where participants will actively experiment with the teaching methods studied – practical exercises, preparation and discussion of the final project (project work), and individual study.
The 40-hour workshop activities will be held in person at the Accademia Vivarium Novum, located at Villa Falconieri (Viale Borromini 5, 00044 Frascati, RM), at the end of the programme, following a residential format with overnight accommodation on site.

Teaching methodologies

The programme will include participatory lectures, workshop-based activities, and seminars. Teaching will be delivered via live-streamed sessions, with attendance monitored throughout the activities.

Attendance

Attendance is compulsory, and absences exceeding 25% of the total hours of theoretical and practical sessions are not permitted. Students who exceed this limit will not be allowed to sit the final examination, unless the absences are due to health reasons or other serious and duly documented circumstances. In exceptional cases, arrangements for making up missed sessions may be considered.

Attendance will be monitored via an online platform that records connection time and student activities.
